Sheep Improve Pastures. thences exerted by sheep upon lands where sors for the several towns to said county of Caledonia.

Two years ago I bought an outlying lot CASH OR READY PAY! for a sheep pasture—a rocky ridge, mostly an old field which had been mowed some years longer than it was profitable to do so. The remaining and smaller portion had been used as a cattle pasture for an indefinite period. The summer previous Call the attention of the public to the prices at to my purchase, 100 sheep had been pastured there, 'bating the periods which an insufficient fence allowed them to visit the THEIR ENTIRE STOCK adjoining premises.

The first spring after purchasing, I decided to start with 150 sheep, and confine them to that lot. So the fences were put in suitable condition and the flock turned in. The season was very favorable, but by the 10th of Sept. the pasture was so bare and the sheep made such a beggarly show that I was glad to remove them to better quarters. At this time the quantity of mannre well distributed over the land, was convincing that it must be benelited—for experience had taught me that Ladies Dress Buttons. Alpacca Braids, Velvet dung, like blood, tells.

Last spring, finding that the grass was starting with vigor under the stimulus of the decomposing sheep exerctions, I ventured to put on 180 sheep. 12 more were added in the summer, and when I took away the flock, about the 10th of October, nearly every sheep was fat. Yet last season was unfavorable to grass in this section-the falling off in the hay crop being about three-tenths, according to general goods. II estimation. So much for what I know.

Now I will theorize a little, (though I know, Mr. Editor, you are down on theorizing, [not theorizing, but mere guessing. by yet, put it in a separate paragraph, so that if you think it advisable to place it under the ban, the compositor can readily separate it from the matter of fact. 1 venture the opinion that sheep not only clothing and carpeting. improve a pasture, where they run day and might, by the voiding of excrements, but also materially benefit it by exhalations from the lungs and gasses ejected from the stomach, as by sweat absorbed by the vegetable growth on which they lie in close contact.

I asked a neighbor, the other day, who had turned out a part of his mowing field for a sheep pasture, if the feed improved? Watch, Jewelry, Silver Ware, Book, He replied, it did—the sward grew thicker and the grass finer; but that the improvement was much the greatest on that part which was in the best heart when he turned it out-that the sheep stayed round there the most (near the buildings)not so sweet as on the poorer part.

I have seen a new land pasture, very thinly seeded with grass, though well covered with sorrel, where two years feeding CHEAP PLATED WARE IS TRASH. with sheep cradicated the sorrel and left the land well covered with white clover, though all were well assured (I cut the forest) that human hands had never sowed WARRANTED PURE COIN. white clover seed there. I leave that without theorizing.—Jubez D. Hill, in Boston Cultivater.
